CITY'S HONOR SAVED

GLENDALE GOES OVER THE TOP IN UNITED WAR WORK CAMPAIGN AND SECURES QUOTA

From the headquarters of the local United War Work Committee has come the very satisfactory report that Glendale went over the top after all and secured her quota of $10,000. This result was not achieved without strenuous work on the part of precinct captains and their assistants, and the city should recognize its debt to these faithful workers who would not admit defeat but patiently re-canvassed their territory. There is also a long credit mark due the patriots who came to the rescue at the last and subscribed a second time. Good work was likewise done at the High School which turned in about $250.

Today the chairman and secretaries are engaged in the preparation of the full report of the drive which will probably be available for publication Friday, together with the balance of the names on the honor roll.

TRAINING IN FRANCE

Mrs. James H. Wittmeyer, daughter of O. Spencer of this city and wife of Lieutenant Wittmeyer, is eagerly awaiting the letters from her husband written after the armistice was signed. Up to the time his last letter was dated he had been in training and had not reached the front. She has received a Christmas label and forwarded his Christmas carton.

ALMOST AN OFFICER

Guy R. Maxwell, who enjoyed a vacation here not very long ago at the home of his parents on West Park avenue, had received preliminary induction papers for his entrance into an officers' training camp when the armistice was signed and all army inductions off. He is now employed at his regular work as assaying chemist for one of the big mining concerns in Bisbee, Ariz.

INFLUENZA SITUATION

Health Officer Chase reports that there has been no "flare-up" as he expressed it, of influenza in Glendale lately and in his opinion the epidemic is wearing out. "There is an improvement in the situation," he says.

MARINES WILL SAIL

PASS THROUGH LOS ANGELES ON WAY TO EASTERN COAST

Mrs. Ella W. Richardson was summoned hastily to Los Angeles Wednesday evening to bid farewell to a number of boys of the Marine Corps whom she met and mothered last summer at Coronado. The Marines had unexpected orders to leave at once for France and passed through Los Angeles last night. Among these boys was Maurice Jackson of Milford street, Glendale whose family is at Catalina so Mrs. Richardson had to do the farewell honors for mother and sister. She is warm in her praise of these boys, says they are fine fellows and she is glad their desire for the journey over there is to be satisfied. Just why they received this unexpected order is known only to the powers that be.

QUICKLY ACROSS

George Edwin Murphy, Jr., son of George E. Murphy of 427 N. Brand Boulevard, was one of the fortunate selects who did not have to undergo a long of period of waiting in an American camp before getting over there. He enlisted the 10th of April and was on the other side by the middle of July. Not having received training here he had to take it there and so he has been back of the lines in the part of France undevastated by war. He is probably disappointed over his failure to reach the fighting front but will have had a great experience nevertheless.

MUCH FROM LITTLE

Statistics of the war-garden commission show that the value of the war-garden crop is $25,000,000. Herein lies a short pointed lesson for the citizen who assumes that his individual effort may as well be neglected because of its seeming insignificance in consideration of the whole project. The sum total of the war-garden crop was achieved because individuals planted 5,285,000 separate plots. These were the "little drops of water and the little grains of sand."—Chicago Tribune.

WEATHER FORECAST—Fair tonight and Friday.

THE HOME GARDEN

GEORGE S. SMITH REJOICES IN GOOD GROWING WEATHER AND GIVES ADVICE

Pushing a hand-cart containing garden tools, George S. Smith, gardener, paused a moment to greet the reporter and comment on the fine growing weather and excellent conditions for seeding. When asked on what the amateur gardener could most profitably busy himself now, he promptly recommended peas. There is always a ready market for those at the home table and no better planting time could be found, than now, he declared. To discount the complaint often made that they do not yield as they should,, he said many people failed to realize that all the legumes need nitrogen in which these soils are deficient, as a rule, particularly if they have been cropped for some time. For that reason it is well to sow a little nitrate when preparing ground for peas and a little animal manure will not be amiss—but not fresh horse manure, which it too heating.

Potatoes are always a stand-by but December is a better month for planting. It is not too early however, he declared, for the preparation of the ground. His method, he said, was to put on a dressing of cow or goat manure, with a sprinkling of lime and nitrates and then thoroughly irrigate it, to put it in more soluble condition. When dried out enough to work he would turn this under and irrigate a second time. As soon as sufficiently dry for another working he would stir the soil again two ways in order to thoroughly distribute the fertilizer. It would then be ready for potatoes or almost any other crop. Thorough preliminary working of the soil and a moist seed bed are the prime conditions for a good garden in his opinion.

Lettuce and radishes do well at this season but many home gardeners make the mistake of planting too much. A very small patch he said will yield more than the average household can use. It is essential that lettuce, to head properly, should be transplanted once or twice. For this reason Mr. Smith says it is quite as well to sow it broadcast and then transfer plants into rows.

It is too late now for beans, even the hardy Windson Bean, he says but root crops of all kinds will do well, especially beets and salsify, and these root crops, supplemented with peas, lettuce and spinach will afford all the variety necessary.

WORSE THAN BRUSH WITH THE ENEMY

A month ago, thirty-six new paint brushes, valued at $3.50 each, were stolen from the army balloon school at Arcadia. A week later William Miller was arrested at Jerome, Arid., with 36 new paint brushes in his possession.

Miller was brought back to Los Angeles at an expense of about $200. It was learned the brushes had been left in Arizona. Pending their arrival in Los Angeles, Miller's hearing was deferred several times, and yesterday was arranged for trial. Then to the discomfiture of the government, it developed that the brushes could not be identified as the ones stolen, and Miller was released.

Now the brushes are in the office of United States Attorney Robert O'Connor. Miller claims them, while the government is sure they belong to the balloon camp. Perhaps Attorney-General Gregory can figure out whose brushes they are, and how much the government spent, per brush, in recovering them.

AIR MAIL LINE TO EAST

Mail from Los Angeles may soon reach New York by air route in thirty-six hours.

Postmaster General Burleson soon will have assigned to him enough equipment and army aviators to make the air mail service from the Atlantic to the Pacific a regular thing, and it is hoped to make the passage from New York to Los Angeles in thirty-six hours as soon as the flying fields and beacons are all established and the night flying made as safe and certain as day flying now is between Washington and New York and between New York and Chicago.

The air mail service between Washington and New York has been 100 per cent for the last three months in all sorts of weather, and so successful has been the financial result that the service is more than self-sustaining. One of the most conspicuous things to western visitors in New York is the little white mail boxes with the legend: "This box for airplane mail only."

One of the results of the war has been to advance the use of air in peace times at least a quarter of a century and to squeeze the Pacific Coast closer to the Atlantic by annihilating more than half the time for the transmission of mail and light packages.

Los Angeles will lose, temporarily at least, the great aviation repair and reconstruction depot planned for this point for the rehabilitation of all aircraft for the Pacific Coast. Signing of the armistice must delay this for several years, but it is believed that as soon as the air mail service between the east and the Pacific ports is well established, the aviation repair depot will be started, and all army and civilian air experts agree that Los Angeles is the logical place for this great plant.

MORE LETTERS FROM MEMBERS OF LOCAL LODGE WHO ARE IN SERVICE

U. S. S. Flusser
Oct. 18th, 1918.

Dear Brother:

Just a line to let you know I am still over here. I think the last word you had from me was from England, about April or May.

The Destroyers have been very busy, as usual, and our time in port isn't very long after each trip. The weather over here is just like the reputation it has, and there was no summer noticeable, and now we are commencing to get the winter storms, and we get full benefit on board these crafts.

Have had the opportunity of visiting many of the coast towns, also a trip to ——.Spent a pleasant furlough in Paris and hope I am permitted to make another before returning to the states. Have been trying to picture it in its palmy days for there surely is action there now, regardless of the war being so close to their door. That seems to be the least of their troubles, therefore, no little glooms. Saw most of the points of interest, and was in Notre Dame Cathedral where the long range shell did so much damage. The big gun which was captured by the British Aug. 8th came in while I was there. It was a 280 centimeter. They have a varied collection of guns, planes and such on exhibition, which have been captured from Germany. The Americans are very popular there, the sailors especially, on account of there being so few. Would like to hear from you regarding dues.

My rating now is Gunners Mate 3rd class. Regards to the boys. Expecting to hear from you at your convenience, I am,

Fraternally Yours,
Robert Campbell.

Dear Brother Secty., and Brothers:

I am willing to take a bawling out, as I know I justly deserve it, for being so negligent in writing. I won't make any excuses but simply tell you of a few of my experiences, thereby hoping to redeem myself to a certain extent. To start with I will say that I had a very bum trip around from Frisco. We had left Frisco on our way around and were about 160 miles down the coast when we stripped one of the turbines. The same afternoon on our way back we had target practice and lost half of the recoil system of the forward "4" gun over board. After spending a week in Mare Island for repairs we once more put to sea and made 36 knots, a little over 40 miles an hour on our speed run. We then started around. After getting as far as Mazatlan Mex. our fresh water gave out and we had to put to shore for fresh water. Our next stop was Salina Cruz, Mex. From there to Panama, then Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, Norfolk, Boston, New York, and Norfolk respectively. Coming thru the Carribean sea we hit heavy weather and it very near wrecked our forecastle. Well our first job was to convoy the Battleship New Hampshire from the Delaware capes to Yorktown, done without mishap. Our second convoy was the Battleship "Kearsarge," from Yorktown to Boston. On this trip we picked up 2 boatloads of survivors from a Norweigan bark which had been destroyed by bombs placed by a German sub. At the time of picking these people up we were within 10 miles of the sub, but could not give chase on account of our convoy. Leaving Boston we convoyed the transport, "Mt. Vernon," to New York. This ship was recently torpedoed. We took several large convoys out of New York about 500 miles at sea then turned around and came back. We were sent on any number of sub hunts, but never saw one. We escaped being hit by a floating mine off Cape Hattras by 200 feet, and later when the mine sweepers put out to pick it up they found 11 more besides the one we had barely missed. Oh, I could tell you a thousand little such occurrences, but will save them until I can tell them to you in person on good old 1289. There are lots of Elk Clubs, but believe me there is only one 1289, this I know for a fact. Well trusting that I will soon be with you again, and with best regards to yourself and all the brothers, I am,

Sincerely and Fraternally Yours,
Norman E. Otis.

P. S. I just received the letters you sent yesterday, and they were like an oasis in the desert. They had gone all the way to England and back. My address now is,

OLIN SPENCER'S WORK

INSPECTS CANNERIES AND THEIR PRODUCTS FOR QUARTERMASTER'S DEPARTMENT

Olin Spencer, erstwhile acting Vice Chairman of the Glendale Red Cross Chapter but now more directly in the service of the government, was in Glendale yesterday afternoon enroute for Burbank to inspect a carload of canned tomatoes for which the Company holds government contracts. Within the past week Mr. Spencer has visited Ontario to inspect a carload of canned peaches. He says the fruit this year is very fine, that the crops have not been as large as last year but that the quality is better. His work thus far has been confined to inspections at canneries. These inspections include investigations of the process, of the materials used and of the containers, which must all correspond exactly with the specifications. For instance, if olive oil is one of the ingredients specified, cotton-seed oil cannot be substituted. Also the factory conditions must be sanitary. If not, the inspector has authority to close them down. The superior officer under whom he works is Major Hanses of Department Quatermaster's Corps.

CONSERVATION WORK

Mrs. C. H. Thompson, Chairman of Conservation Work for the Junior Red Cross and members of her committee are at work today at headquarters on Broadway opposite Fire Station No 1. There was a surplus left from the last shipment and considerable stocks have accumulated which the committee is sorting and packing in expectation of moving to new quarters. All work was suspended in this branch during the influenza epidemic but now that church sewing societies are meeting again it will be possible to secure needlewomen to make up the garments cut by the committee. The great need among the civilian populations of France and Belgium makes it important that activity ni this division be revived. Mrs. Thompson's committee includes Mrs. E. L. Young and Mesdames Southard, Rathbun, and Hosford. During the influenza ban these ladies worked in the hospital garment section of the Red Cross Chapter and turned out 66 garments for Belgian relief.

DEATH OF MRS. LEO. D. HYER

After a short illness, Mrs. Maud Hyer died at her late home, 1905 Gardena avenue Wednesday morning, November 20th, 1918.

She was the wife of Leo D. Hyer, mother of a young daughter, Hattie Hyer, and the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Baker of Brand Boulevard, was the sister of Mrs. Warren West, Mrs. Charles Klamm, Allen and Leland Baker of this city and of Roger Baker now overseas with the American Army.

Funeral services will be held today, Thursday, at 3 p. m. at the grave in Forest Lawn Memorial Park. Scovern, Letton and Frey having charge.

CHEAP AND GOOD FUEL

AUTOMOBILES ARE ASKED TO VOLUNTEER FOR SALVAGE COLLECTION SATURDAY

Mr. Rowley, Chairman of Salvage for the Junior Red Cross reports that he has a half-ton of peach pits and nut shells which he will sell for fuel at a reasonable price.

Also, he is asking twelve automobiles to volunteer for service next Saturday for the collection of salvage. The materials have accumulated because no collections were made while the influenza ban was effective.

TIME BY THE FORELOCK

Los Angeles Exemption Boards are worried considerably by the call from Provost Marshal General for complete statistics of their work to be filed immediately and the statistics are yet to be compiled. Not so the local board in Glendale which, thanks to the efficient voluntary service of Mrs. Hartley Shaw, had its statistics compiled and mailed to Washington about ten days ago.

CHRISTMAS LABELS AT RED CROSS

Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, acting vice-chairman of the Glendale Red Cross Chapter and Chairman of the Christmas Package Committee, reports that the package labels have been received at headquarters and can now be given out to relatives of soldiers who have failed to receive them from boys overseas.

WASTE OF PAPER BY GOVERNMENT TO BE CURBED

The war industries board has taken definite steps to curb the waste of paper in the myriad of publications started under government auspices by the publicity managers of various war activities. Attention was called to this waste by Representative Walsh in a speech in the House of Representatives several weeks ago. Mr. Walsh urged that in view of the restrictions placed upon newspapers and magazines some action be taken to reduce the waste in these government publications.

Officials of the war industries board stated that plans for regulating these government publications were under consideration, and the regulations just issued are designed to accomplish that result.

This statement has been issued by the war industries board:

"Regulations governing house organs or periodicals confined to shipyard and war activities, camp activities publications and departmental activities publications are announced by the pulp and paper division of the war industries board.

"It is pointed out that the demands for print paper for all purposes are far in excess of the capacities of the mills to produce, and rigid economy in the use of paper is an absolute necessity.

"For shipyard publications issued by the shipyard organization solely for the upbuilding of the organization morale and established prior to October 1, 1918, the following specifications are called for:

"The maximum size of the paper should not exceed eight pages, 9x12, or four pages of any larger size which may be used because of convenience in manufacture. Such publications must not be issued more than once a week, and the circulation must not exceed the total number of employees in the yard. There should be no paid advertising printed. If the publication is a recent effort on the part of the shipbuilding organization, the same regulation must govern its publication.

"Similar specifications are required of camp war activities publications of a camp or cantonment of the United States government intended solely for upbuilding the organization morale, except that the circulation shall not exceed one-quarter of the average number of men in service in the camp or cantonment.

"The regulation of the above publications will serve as a guide for executive heads of governmental departments in drafting necessary regulation for such publication intended to upbuild the morale of the department organization."

BACK TO WORK

The great undertaking of rebuilding the world is upon us and will not wait. The first requirement is food, clothing and other necessities not only for Belgium, Russia and Serbia, but for Germany herself. We cannot let Germany starve, and we cannot afford to let her millions stand idle for lack of opportunity to work. We cannot even collect reparation from her for the damage she has done unless we assist her to repair the damage her own industrial system has suffered, and to become productive again. There is no sentiment in this. The world is now too poor to afford to prevent anybody—or any nation—from making as many needed things as possible. Unless every productive agency is used to the utmost this winter, and every distributing agency is wisely and justly employed, there will be famine over half of Europe. According to Hoover's announcement, forty million people in northern Russia alone "have but little chance of obtaining food this winter." There are millions more who "can be reached and must be fed." The nations which have an abundance must stint themselves and strain their production to the utmost in order to save the lives of those endangered millions.

Much of the burden will fall upon the United States, simply because comparatively little of the burden of the actual fighting has fallen upon us. Neither in men or in goods have we sacrificed as some of the allies. Our economic system has been shaken, but not transformed from the bottom up; our wealth has been poured out lavishly, but there is enough left to have carried us through years of war.

A large part of our effort, indeed, will have to be diverted from its present channel into others, and this will cause a temporary slackening of employment. But it is essential that the change be made as soon as possible, and that no obstructionist tactics, whether arising from pure stupidity or from motives of private profit, prevent the swift utilization of every ounce of national strength in the work of peace. If wise counsels prevail we never shall go back to the traditional manipulation of materials for the benefit of minorities at the expense of the public.

The demonstrated ability of the civilized world to maintain its civil populations and in addition to conduct a war such as this, has been proof positive that destructive poverty can be in time wiped utterly out of existence. That is the next great upward step toward the full realization of democracy. The beginning of it is work, and there is more than enough work for everybody.—Monrovia News.

THRIFT IN ICELAND

The city council of Reykjavik, Iceland, has now begun the baking of bread in a special bakery, in connection with the local gas works, where modern machinery has been installed in a special building. The result was excellent, in that the waste heat from the gas works is being used in a practicable and profitable manner, and in the course of a short time all the black bread which may be needed will be baked in the new bread factory.

The idea was that of a young student there, and it is considered one of the best means of saving coal, time and money. Three-pound loaves have been completely baked in three hours in considerable numbers.

This is said to be the first time that bread has been baked with the waste heat from a gas plant.

THE GERMAN IMMIGRATION PROBLEM

It requires only a little calm consideration to perceive that, as a result of the calamity she has brought upon herself, Germany will not be able to return to a normal industrial condition for years. She has alienated the custom, as well as the friendship, of practically the rest of the world. More bitter toward her than her recognized enemies of the last four years are, perhaps, the nations which she has recently been styling her allies. Her world trade has been wiped out. The armistice conditions deprive her of the ability to retrieve it, as she hoped and planned, before her competitors could enter the field. She must make restitution for what she has destroyed, restore all stolen goods in her possession, and supply indemnities for everything she has seized and applied to her own use.

For an indefinite season Germany will be back where she was during the first half of the last century, when one of her poets, forced into exile by the prevalent poverty and depression, sang,

Farewell, thou land where Hope is blighted,
Farewell, my country and my home.

There will, in all probability, be another great German exodus, another wave of Teutonic emigration such as that which followed the revolution of 1848. Then the United States held its arms wide open in welcome to the refugees and exiles, admitted them without question, and laid within their reach the opportunity which had been denied them at home.

No doubt, German immigrants will soon be flocking to the United States in great numbers, if the doors shall again be opened to their admission. Here, plainly, arises a problem; but it is less difficult of solution than the problem likely to arise from the flocking of German immigrants into Mexico and Central and South American countries. At the worst, the German immigrant in the United States can be kept under surveillance; at the best, if he seeks a foothold in the Western Hemisphere with motives such as those which have prompted great numbers of his compatriots in the past, he will be dangerous in any part of the American continents. Aside from his conspiracies in the United States, his plots and machinations throughout the southern Americas have been disturbing factors in American and in world affairs during the war. He was trusted in the past and proved untrustworthy. Will he be more deserving of trust in the future? Who can tell? And herein lies the question.

It is a question that cannot be avoided, nor can a decision upon it be long postponed. Germanization has now been defeated in North and South America, as well as in other parts of the world. But will it remain defeated? Should it, with free-handed generosity, be given the privilege of reviving?—C. S. Monitor.

JENNY'S QUICK METHOD

Jenny's uncle, who was a school teacher, met her on the street one beautiful May day and asked her if she was going to the Maypole dance.

"No, I ain't going."

"Oh, my dear," said her uncle, "You must not say 'I ain't going.' You must say, 'I am not going,' " and he proceeded to give her a little lesson in grammar. "You are not going. He is not going. We are not going. You are not going. They are not going. Now, can you say all that, Jenny?"

"Sure, I can," she replied, making a courtesy. "There ain't nobody going."

"You seem to be rather proud of being a pirate," remarked the trusty lieutenant.

"I am," replied Captain Kidd. "I'm a regular pirate, I am. When I want to sink a ship I superintend the job in person. I don't sit at home and send a lot of scared sailors out to take chances all by themselves in U-boats."

Personals

Rev. W. E. Edmonds and family motored today to Camp Baldy in San Antonio Canyon above Uplands.

Mrs. M. A. Clinton of Los Angeles was the guest on Tuesday of her daughter, Mrs. Charles Walsh of 3460 Perlita avenue.

Mrs. A. W. McMillan and Mrs. Henry Drouel of the Atwater tract were visitors in the home of Mr. Sheeroz of Glendale on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Gerbed of Los Angeles were in Glendale Wednesday as guests of Mrs. W. L. Andrews of Pioneer Drive.

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Rowe of Orange street spent Sunday in Van Nuys where they were dinner guests of old friends from Illinois, Mr. and Mrs. Lutton.

Precinct 674 in which the Atwater Tract is situated, raised $179 for the United War Work Campaign, as reported by one of the workers.

The Snell home on Eulalia street is the abode of sickness. Mrs. Snell and Miss Sarah Fay Snell are both down with influenza but are getting along nicely. Miss Tirza Snell has had it and recovered.

Last Sunday the service flag of the Tropico Presbyterian Church was hung for the first time. Just before the influenza ban was imposed plans had been made for its dedication with important ceremonies. It bears four triangles and four stars.

Paul Rider, son of Rev. O. P. Rider, pastor of the Tropico Presbyterion Church is expected home for the week end from Camp Kearney for his first furlough since he entered the Quatermaster's Department at that camp. He has no information yet as to when he will be discharged.

Vincent Salmacia who is in an officers' training camp at San Pedro working for a commission as Ensign, is making fine progress and hardly knows whether he wants to stop or not. His brother heard from him today by long distance 'phone but he does not yet know whether he is to be discharged or not.

Laurence Rowe, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Rowe of Orange street, is in a special army training camp at Indianapolis whither he was sent with a railroad contingent. His mother is looking daily for a letter from him explaining his present status and prospects for discharge from the army.

Eldred and Walter Peters were up from Camp Kearney to spend Sunday in Glendale. It is the first home leave Private Peters has had since he left here the last of August when he was sent to Richmond and then returned to Camp Kearney. He has been ill of influenza at the camp and is only now well enough to come home.

Rev. J. H. Hoffman and wife of Reading, Mass., are guests in the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Flint of 232 North Kenwood. They have been in Northern California before but this is their first view of Southern California and they are delighted with the prospect. They spent some time in New Mexico while enroute.

The death and burial today of Mrs. Leo D. Hyer of Gardena avenue was a great shock to her many friends as she came down with influenza only last Saturday and was not considered dangerously ill until within a short time of her death. A week heart was said to have been a contributing cause. Her sister, Mrs. Warren West of Gardena avenue and her brother Allen Baker are both ill of the disease at the present time. This combined with the absence of their son Roger makes it very hard for Mr. and Mrs. Baker.

ST MARK'S EPISCOPAL CHURCH

HURRAH! THE WAR IS ENDED

The following lines, which appeared recently in the Pittsburgh Leader, were written by Mrs. C. A. Grassell, mother of Warner H. Grassel, who left from Glendale over a year ago as a member of the famous Rainbow Division:

Hurrah! The war is ended,
And the victory is won —
Behold, it was our Sammies
Who fired the last gun.
They are yelling and shouting—
The Red, White and Blue—
We kept her unsullied,
She's waving now for you.

Hurrah! The war is ended,
And the victory is won—
The dawn of a tomorrow
For all nations has begun.
Then peace and joy forever,
Over all land and sea;
Blest be our noble lads
Who have won our liberty.

REFRAIN:

Three cheers for our khaki boys—
All of them brave and true—
And the old Yanks from U. S.
Showed them a thing or two.
Then it's hip, hip, hurrah!
For our soldiers and sailors all;
They fought our battle gloriously;
They answered the Nation's call.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE WAR RELIEF WORK

Boston, Mass.—Termination of hostilities in Europe has been accompanied by no lessening of the opportunities which Christian Scientists have enjoyed in contributing to the comfort and welfare of the men in the armies and navies of the United States and the Allies, and of the countless non-combatants in the devastated countries of Europe, but, on the contrary, has unfolded increased opportunities for the war relief activities carried on by the Christian Science movement on both sides of the Atlantic. Accordingly, the Christian Science Board of Directors has requested that the contributions of Christian Scientists to the War Relief Fund of The Mother Church be not abated but augmented.

Furthermore, it has been announced by the Christian Science Board of Directors that the comforts forwarding activities and the war relief work will be increased, and also reorganized to conform with an order from the Secretary of War of the United States, issued on Oct. 21, to take effect on Dec. 1, next. Beginning with the latter date, the work of the Christian Scientists for United States soldiers and sailors will be carried on in full accord with the Secretary of War's new order, which reads as follows:

"The Secretary of War directs that all religious activities must be under direction of a regularly commissioned chaplain, with the aproval of the commanding officer; that this would require all religious activities of Christian Science workers to be under direction of a chaplain; that all welfare activities must be carried on through one of the following authorized welfare agencies.

The effect of this order will be to change somewhat the camp welfar work done by the Christian Scientists, but it will, however, allow the better part of this activity to continue on a definite basis. The Christian Science Board of Directors has announced, therefore, that the work of the Christion Science War Relief Committee in the United States will be conducted as follows:

1. Soldiers and sailors of the United States or allied countries, and also those recently discharged from military or naval service, will be afforded opportunities of religious service, if they desire, in conformity with the practice of Christian Science and also in accord with the orders of the authorities.

2. Such men will be furnished with copies of The Christian Science Monitor and other authorized Christian Science literature, so far as appears to be judicious.

3. To assist in these activities, buildings, tents and rooms will be maintained; outside of the camps and cantonments, however.

4. Services incidental to the foregoing also will be rendered.

In countries other than the United States, the work of the Christian Science War Relief Committee will include all of the same activities and will also include the supplying of clothing and money to sufferers from the war.

The war work of The Mother Church has been made possible by the generous support contributed by Christian Scientists throughout the world; this work, as is generally known, being carried on without regard to the religious affiliations of those to whom comfort has been administered and relief extended.

Edward L. Ripley, treasurer of The Mother Church, has stated that the total disbursements to date from The Christian Science War Relief Fund amount to $1,275,560. Most of this sum has been disbursed by committees of Christian Scientists in Great Britain and Ireland, France, Switzerland, Holland, Italy, Belgium, Armenia, Syria, Poland, Rumania, Serbia and Germany. The money expended in Germany was sent before the United States entered the war.

The Christian Science war work has been carried on under three heads, viz: Camp Welfare, Comforts Forwarding and War Relief. In addition, active religious work has been made possible in both the military and the naval establishments of the United States through the efforts of Christian Science chaplains, nine of whom have been commissioned in the army and one in the navy. Many letters from men in the service and from sufferers who have been relieved bear testimony to the effectual work that has been accomplished.

Camp welfare workers were placed in many of the camps and cantonments in the United States. Their mission was to help the men in uniform wherever possible and to supply such men as desire them with copies of the Bible literature. In carrying on this work, Christian Science welfare houses and similar facilities have been provided.

The activities of the Comforts Forwarding Committee have been carried on through 975 branches which are in operation in all states of the American Union, also in Alaska, Hawaii and the Canal Zone. A total of more than 500,000 articles of clothing and knitted goods has been distributed by this committee, among men in the war service and among refugees.

The total number of knitted goods distributed from Dec. 1, 1917, to Oct. 1, 1918, was 113, 079; the total number of garments distributed to various relief organizations in Boston to be sent overseas was 249,788. In addition, the field has distributed, exclusive of articles sent them by this committee, a total of 117,268 garments.

At the committee's work rooms in Boston, there are now 30 tons of miscellaneous clothing, all packed ready for distribution in the devastated regions of France, by representatives of the Christian Science War Relief Committee, now in that country. Notwithstanding the great volume of distribution, it is stated that the committee has never had sufficient quantities of garments to supply fully the existing need, and has been obliged to send out only a percentage of the articles asked for.

Speaking of the Christian Science chaplains, Capt. Paul H. Moody, a member of the Overseas Chaplain's Board, now in the United States, said: "They are fine men who have done splendid work."

One new chaplain has recently been commissioned in the United States Army, Herbert W. Beck of Oakland, Cal. Of the others, Richard J. Davis of Boston is assigned to naval duty from a base in Scotland. Edward W. Dickey of Los Angeles, Cal., Martin F. Jackson of New York City, Walter S. Cross of Baltimore, Md., George R. Bonnor and Arthur C. Whitney of Boston are on duty in France. Gustavus S. Paine of Reno, Nev., is on duty at Camp Devens, Mass., William M. Bartlett of Boston and Henry K. Filler of Youngstown, O., are now under orders for overseas army service.

These chaplains hold bath denominational and undemoninational services and, in addition, their duties include much personal welfare work. One of the chaplains conducted a Sunday service in the open air near the front line, when a battle between aeroplanes occured high above the congregation during the service.—C. S. Monitor.

ALSO COFFEE MADE OF GARBAGE IS NOT GOOD

(By United Press)

Washington, Nov. 20.—Methods of manufacurers of coffee and tea substitutes in Germany are revealed in a notice issued by the German War Committee for Tea and Coffee and Their Substitutes, copies of which have been received in this country.

Experiments have shown, says the notice, "that the shells of fruit stones, hazel and walnut shells, and also plum stones are not fit for making coffee."

GLENDALE'S NEW CITY DIRECTORY.

The work of canvassing for the information for the new directory for the city of Glendale and Casa Verdugo is well under way. The co-operation of the people of these districts is earnestly solicited, and all assistance and courtesy extended to the canvassers will be greatly appreciated by the publisher. It is hoped the books will be ready for delivery on January 1, 1919. The subscription price is $3.00 per copy if the order is given before going to press. After going to press the price will be $4.00 per copy. These prices will be strictly adhered to and only a limited number of extra copies will be printed. This directory should have a place in every business house, every office, every school and every home in Glendale and Casa Verdugo.

OWN YOUR OWN HOME

WORTH WHILE WAR-TIME SAVINGS

Families in every walk of life, particularly the wage earners, are enjoying larger incomes than ever before. True, the cost of living has increased, but our national tendency to conserve and save means more extra dollars for outside investment.

Most of us find ourselves able to meet a fair-sized monthly payment on something. Then comes the test. What shall we purchase? Many long-cherished possessions are now within reach. Certain luxuries we have wanted are tempting our dollars. Our new-found wealth is apt to warp our judgment, we are subject to momentary intoxication of prosperity and may make some foolhardy expenditure.

Never was a time for more serious consideration. The test of our judgment is at hand. We must weigh values carefully, and if our choice is between a speculative investment or more luxurious living and dressing or some more worth while possession such as a Home, then let us consider future incomes of happiness and contentment as well as dollars.

Man's greatest duty to his country, his community and his family is
